PART II

1. Purpose of the statutory instrument

To regulate driving schools, driving instructors and issuance of driving licences.

2. Legislative Context

The statutory instrument in question provides a legal framework for the operations of driving schools, instructors and issuance of driving licences.

3. Policy Background

The key policy objective of the NTSA Act is to ensure road safety and a sustainable and well organized road transport system. This instrument promotes road safety by providing guidelines on the licensing regime of driving schools and driving instructors. It provides the manner in which driving test examinations will be conducted and driving licences will be issued based on various categories. The regulations provide for the prescribed forms to be filled upon application of a driving school licence and the prescribed fees, categories of driving schools and the prescribed forms for the application for a driving examination.

Currently the operation of driving schools, licencing of instructors and issuance of driving licences is unregulated. This has led to an increase in proliferation of unlicensed driving schools and instructors who provide poor driver training and testing, which has led to the increase of unskilled drivers on our roads. In order to address this challenge there is need to bring the sector into a regulatory regime to enhance safety by providing better training and testing for drivers by qualified instructors.

4. Consultation outcome

The Ministry and the National Transport and Safety Authority issued a public notice in a paper of national circulation inviting members of the public for their comments. In addition, public participation forums were held by the Authority in Nairobi, Machakos and Naivasha. The public submitted their comments some of which were included in the final rules. (Attached are the public participation registers for ease of reference)

4.2 The Ministry of Transport and Infrastructure intends to provide support to further create awareness on the rules through advertisements in the media and forums.

5. Impact

5.1 The regulations shall have no fundamental effect to rights and freedoms.

5.2 The regulations will help streamline the operations of driving schools, instructors and issuance of driving licences.

6. Monitoring and review

6.1 The success criteria of these rules will be an improvement in conducting driver training and testing in Kenya.

President Uhuru Kenyatta yesterday declared that Kenya would not be cowed by terrorists as the Kenya Defence Forces mounted a counter-offensive against Al-Shabaab bases in Somalia.

Although the Chief of Defence Forces, Gen Samson Mwatethe, described the counter-attack as "a delicate operation", military planes conducted air strikes against Al-Shabaab, while on the ground, tactical units used armoured vehicles to hit the terrorists' camps in retaliation for the Friday dawn raid against a KDF camp in Eldadde, Somalia.

"We shall defend our country by all means and we will unite with other countries in the region to defeat these terrorists," the President warned when he addressed a gathering at Lango Bays Primary School, grounds in Kilifi County. "We shall defend our country and we will unite as a region, fight and defeat them to ensure we live in peace."

He asked Kenyans to support the military campaign in Somalia. "We need to give them our full support because it is through their sacrifice and selflessness that we are able to enjoy the current peace and development," he said. "Without the work they are doing (in Somalia) there cannot be development," said the President.

And speaking in Nairobi after receiving another group of soldiers who were injured in the Friday

Defence Cabinet Secretary Raychelle Omamo joins Chief of General Staff Samson Mwatethe and other senior military commanders in receiving soldiers who survived the Al-Shabaab attack on a KDF camp in Somalia last Friday. The soldiers were flown to Wilson Airport in a military aircraft yesterday.

attack, Gen Mwatethe said the operation was a cautious undertaking because the military believes there are several Kenyan soldiers being held captive.

"We have information to the effect that some soldiers are being used as human shields," he said.

Besides the bombing of Al-Shabaab bases, KDF soldiers were also engaged in a search and rescue mission, which entered its fourth day yesterday. The aim of the mission is to find missing or injured Kenyan soldiers. The operation was also aimed at recovering bodies of those who died in combat.

By yesterday, 30 soldiers who survived the Friday attack had been transferred to Nairobi.

"This morning, another group of heroes have returned. They have no physical injuries but are exhausted because of the ordeal they went through," said Defence Cabinet Secretary Raychelle Omamo at Secretary Wilson Airport in Nairobi, yesterday, after receiving 16 survivors who arrived aboard a Kenya Air Force plane at noon.

Four others who were injured arrived on Sunday at noon, while another group was flown in later that evening.

Gen Mwatethe, Army Commander Leonard Ngondi and Air Force Commander Samuel Thuita were also at the airport to receive the soldiers yesterday.

Except one soldier, who walked out of the plane with a slight limp, the rest looked fit. Some emerged from the plane with their rifles. Among the survivors were those who endured long walks to the border where they were received in other KDF camps.

There are others still hiding in the bush. They had sent signals that they are still alive and were waiting to be picked up and flown to Kenya.

Ms Omamo said the number of soldiers killed would be made public once the operation ends. Bodies of those killed in battle were expected in Nairobi last evening.

At the same time, military headquarters announced four helicopters and urged relatives of soldiers to call and get information about the fate of their loved ones.
